“ I know time has passed before adding his memory. It has been very personal. Many do not understand that. My Simba passed just short of turning 22 years old. I don't think he had any idea he was a cat. He loved his brother and sister. He would cuddle and play with them all the time. He loved playing fetch and blanket monster. He slept on my stomach at night. I miss his purr putting me to sleep. I have so many pictures of him over the years, I don't know how to pick a favorite; they are all my favorites. My little office manager loved Christmas. He would sit by the presents just waiting for his turn. Simba loved coming up north with us on weekends. He would be on my lap for the entire drive, and people would point and laugh as they noticed him in the car.
